Truman Never Admitted Any Mistakes

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — When he leaves the White House President Truman will have time to look back upon his presidency and think of what he might have done differently. But even if he thinks there were mistakes, he may never say so publicly. He was never a man to give aid and comfort to his critics, if he could help it.

It was this very resistance to criticism — sometimes — that came back to haunt him in the campaign.

When he was first told cracks were beginning to appear in his administration, he used the words "admirable" and "correct" to describe and hear. The Republican reminded him of those words many times in the campaign.

Yet it was Truman himself who presented a picture of the government in the eyes of the people. Perhaps it was in dealing with the people or in dealing with the press that he made a major mistake.

One of the most amazing features of the presidential campaign was the bewilderment expressed by many people about issues that had been talked and written about.

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — A combination of a sense of duty and the exercise of the right of free speech led to the case of the late Sen. Alton B. Parker.

He and Barry Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal, spoke at the dedication of a bronze plaque in the memory of Ellish P. Lovejoy, anti-slavery editor and Presbyterian minister who was shot to death on March 15, 1835.

It was the Democratic presidential nominee's first public speech since he defeated Dwight D. Eisenhower last Tuesday. The estimated 1,000 persons greeted Stevenson with shouts and prolonged applause.

Both Stevenson and Bingham, but with different emphases, weighed the meaning of the restoration of freedom.

Stevenson said Lovejoy served a cause greater than the abolition of slavery.

"This greater cause the right — and the duty — of the individual to speak out for the truth," he said. "I make the reference to 'duty' advisedly because that is what Lovejoy thought of."

The Louisville publisher urged newspapers to make "an exhaustive" self-criticism of their campaign performances to guard against possible abuse of freedom of the press.

Bingham, noting criticism received by the press during the recent presidential campaign, said the self-criticism should "determine whether Stevenson newspapers slanted their news coverage toward Stevenson and Eisenhower."

"If the press fails in that way," the Louisville publisher said, "it is the press that is at fault. It is the press that is at fault. It is the press that is at fault."

Hog-House Monologue Is It True What They Say About 'You-all'?

Paragraph
Today Mamma Hog looked out the hog-house door and told Papa Hog, "Be careful — this kind of weather they'll kill you."

Maybe you've already read this somewhere but it's new to me. It's that poem written by some Southern writer to explain a local language problem to ignorant Yankees.

The poem is quoted in Allan Trout's column in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

You-all is plural
Come all you from other parts,
Both city folks and rural,
And listen while I tell you this:
The word you-all is plural.

When we say you-all must come down,
Or we'll shall be lonely.
We mean a dozen folks, perhaps,
Or not one person only.

I should say to Hiram Jones,
For instance, You-all's lazy,
Or I will call him a lazy bum.
He'd think that I was crazy.

Now if you'd be more sociable,
And with us often mingle,
You'd find that on the next tongue
The word you-all is never single.

Don't think I mean to criticize,
Or act as if I knew it all,
But when we speak of one alone,
We call him "you," like you-all.

Outside the station a wet pile of muddy clothing, bandages and boots lay in the mud where the wounded had been stripped quickly for treatment.

In a nearby tent, four infants smoked and talked. They had spent the first four hours of the day in the mud.

S. J. Moore, 24, of Allison, Ind., looked amazed when told what day it was. He started laughing.

"They must have had an armistice once for some reason or other,"
he said. "It's almost impossible to see."

"All I want to do on Armistice Day is to shoot a few rounds and live it all by myself. We didn't expect three deep in that mud."

The enemy shells had caught the men unaware because they had thought they were in a safe place.
Old Baldy and T-bone hills for a rest.

"That can you say over here about Armistice day?" one soldier muttered dazedly. "I don't know. I don't know. I don't know."

"I have a feeling," said Pvt.
Robert J. McIntosh, 21, of Brooklyn, N. Y., "You don't even know what it is. It's just another day."

Only one of the soldiers had a feeling that it was a holiday.
It was Pvt. Francis Marks, 18, of Schenectady, N. Y.

"I wouldn't talk much about it," Marks said. "But I think he was in the infantry."
"I don't know," said McIntosh.

"I don't know," said McIntosh.
"I don't know. I don't know. I
don't know."

"I don't know," said McIntosh.
"I don't know. I don't know. I
don't know."

"I don't know," said McIntosh.
"I don't know. I don't know. I
don't know."

"I don't know," said McIntosh.
"I don't know. I don't know. I
don't know."

"I don't know," said McIntosh.
"I don't know. I don't know. I don't

Democrats Have Job of Rebuilding

By ARTHUR BOON

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Democrats now must begin the tremendous job of rebuilding the party.

Since 1928, when Herbert Hoover licked Al Smith, has their political picture looked so bleak. Everywhere they turn they face the election results piled up by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

That's the question Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson and National Democratic Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell discussed in a week-end meeting in Springfield, Ill.

The answers — if indeed, they had any answers — were not made public.

But it is obvious that with Franklin D. Roosevelt dead and Harry Truman retiring, the party needs a leader.

Stevenson stays on as head of the party, with the tough job of trying to keep everyone pulling together.

It won't be easy. For one thing, he has been beaten, always a cardinal sin in politics. For another, he soon steps into the shoes of a man who has been a leader of the party for 12 years.

By contrast, the Republican picture is ray. In addition to the presidency, the GOP will control the Senate, the House and have 30 of the 48 governors.

Yet it lacks a particularly gentle leader to spot some of the party's mistakes.

Many of those who voted for Eisenhower undoubtedly will expect him to perform great in the future. He could lead to a president from all sides.

If they should become some day, it would lead to a Democratic House in the 1954 off-year election.

At almost all times, there's a tendency for the line to look around to the years when no president is being elected. And the Republicans, with only two more votes in the 218 needed to control the House, have the barest of margins now.

presented by Mrs. James McLarty, Jr., when WPCS of the First Methodist Church met Monday, November 10.

Those taking part on the program were Mrs. Ralph Smith, Mrs. J. M. Hurlin, Mrs. J. L. Webb, and Mrs. Sam Wernick.

Reverend Virgil Keeley, gave an inspiring devotion on the "Coming of the Holy Spirit."

Mrs. L. B. Tobey, president, presided over the business session.

The meeting was followed by the singing of hymns and the benediction. In the circle count, Circle 1, Mrs. L. L. Bruch, chairman, had the highest number present.

DOROTHY DIX

Cruel Children

Dear Miss Dix: My husband, now 52 years old and I are recently arrived immigrants. At present we live in the home of a widow, who has the use of a furnished flat and in return I take care of the old gentleman's home and prepare his meals. We are quiet people, more interested in family life than outside affairs.

My problem is my son. He is a neat boy, well behaved, and has had many complaints about him. However, the more I hear of him, the more I like him. He is 10 years old and I am 50 and 40 respectively. We go to church, and that about covers the rest of his life. He is a very good child, but I am sure that he is not getting the best of his education. I am sure that he is not getting the best of his education. I am sure that he is not getting the best of his education.

At almost all times, there is a tendency for the boys to be around the girls. This is not a good thing, and I am sure that it is not getting the best of his education. I am sure that he is not getting the best of his education. I am sure that he is not getting the best of his education.

There are very unfortunately, people in this world who are convinced that any one not exactly like themselves is queer and there fore should be shunned. The fact that you come from across the ocean puts you outside the pale of their narrow friendship. Such intolerance is one of the great stumbling blocks to human advancement.

You can be like your neighbors in many ways — go to the same church, send your child to the same school, but if you speak with an accent, or a sufficient reason, according to their narrow minds to ostracize you and your family. Not much can be done with neighbors like that, but just keep that sunny time they will see the light of true charity, which has been given to us in the eighteenth verse of the nineteenth chapter of Leviticus.

Needs are met not only by birds, but by some mammals, reptiles, amphibians, fishes and invertebrates.

You're Not At Fault

Don't feel that you are at fault because you are not a housekeeper. The women who aim you probably don't even know how to keep their own houses in order. I suggest a talk with your clergyman or one of the teachers at the boy's school. They may have activities to suggest that would get the boy away from your immediate neighborhood during his playtime, and give him a chance to make friends among folks who will appreciate his fine qualities. It might also be a good idea for you to engage in some church work, getting yourself known among a wider circle and also helping to pave the way for your son's activities.

The saddest part of your story is that the boy's contemporaries — the children in the neighborhood — are the cruellest to him. Children are born envious and to them anything they don't comprehend is cause for scorn. Good home training would make kinder citizens of them, and it's too bad so many parents neglect their responsibility in this matter. A kind family creates a kind child. It's a kind encouragement, at least by example, cruelty in their children.

certainly hope someone can help solve your problem locally, for I'd hate to believe that a few careless people would give you an unfair picture of our country. I'd like to hear from you again.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been going with a very nice boy for the past six months. He is planning a trip to the United States, to college, about 300 miles from here. It would be necessary to stay in college town overnight and I'd like to know if it would be all right for me to go with him.

Answer: Most emphatically, no! I'm sure your parents would object vociferously. A girl's reputation is much too precious to be risked for the pleasure of one trip.

Dear Miss Dix: Your advice may be out of a very tough situation. We know a young couple who came to our house often, and sometimes at very late hours. Recently the lady came about 10 p. m. I was feeling very tired and she and my wife were engaged in a typically feminine conversation. I excused myself and went to bed. I was awakened by a loud noise. I got up and found the lady and her husband in a very intimate position. I was very shocked and I am sure that my wife was very shocked. I am sure that my wife was very shocked. I am sure that my wife was very shocked.

I was feeling very tired and she and my wife were engaged in a typically feminine conversation. I excused myself and went to bed. I was awakened by a loud noise. I got up and found the lady and her husband in a very intimate position. I was very shocked and I am sure that my wife was very shocked. I am sure that my wife was very shocked.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been going with a very nice boy for the past six months. He is planning a trip to the United States, to college, about 300 miles from here. It would be necessary to stay in college town overnight and I'd like to know if it would be all right for me to go with him.

Answer: Most emphatically, no! I'm sure your parents would object vociferously. A girl's reputation is much too precious to be risked for the pleasure of one trip.

Dear Miss Dix: Your advice may be out of a very tough situation. We know a young couple who came to our house often, and sometimes at very late hours. Recently the lady came about 10 p. m. We Won't Buy Peace in Korea at the Price of Dishonor

Every once in a while some impatient fellow citizen asks you, "If the only thing that's holding up peace negotiations in Korea is the question how many of our prisoners are to be returned to the Reds why don't we just turn them all back?"

It's a good question. What's your answer? Right or wrong, we went into Korea proclaiming ourselves as liberators. We circled around and around the fighting front, and thousands of North Koreans put their trust in the South.

But they failed to turn Chinese Communists off the Yoke, a mass of tunnels and caves at the northern end of Sniper which has been the key to their control of the important ridge.

Many citizens in the 9th combat group comprising the 44th Airborne are finding it easy to give a boy Scout in this fight through the price being charged for milk in Hope. His letter follows:
